

Jana the Jaguar

the spirit unleashed

S. Gail Motley

Chapter 1

“Dang-it!,” Jana yells as she stretches her arms to touch the ground. She then pushes her hand down toward the ground and pushes her legs from a squatting position to leap forward into a full lunge into the air and off her high school building. “KIKI, OH-MY-GOD are you a freakin Cookoo bird!” Jana yells as she feels her body hang-ten for a few seconds. Jana kicks her arms and legs in what seems like slow motion as an attempt to stay in the air. Suddenly, beautiful long green and white feathers rub across her face and Jana looks up to see KiKi overhead. Kiki's talons suddenly clutches her arms safely. “Kiki, you are going to give me a heart-attack, you are always seconds too slow when I call you,!” Jana begin to scold the beautiful bird. "I could have fallen on my head, do you know how tall this building is, what is someone saw me jump off the building, it is my gym class, what if...." Jana rants.

The bird chuckles and states, "Well goddess XXX told me that we do have DoDo birds in my father's bloodline and my great-great-great grandmother was said to have eagle in her bloodline. She was the guardian of the 10th Jaguar spirit. They told me that she warned her daughter not to pollute our DNA with that Dodo! Maybe that's the flaw in my species. Late, but right on time! Where to princess?," Kiki states.